In 1994, a new group of peacekeepers arrived in Bosnia. These peacekeepers were unarmed, and they had a different approach to peacekeeping. They believed that the best way to stop the fighting was to build relationships with the people on both sides of the conflict.

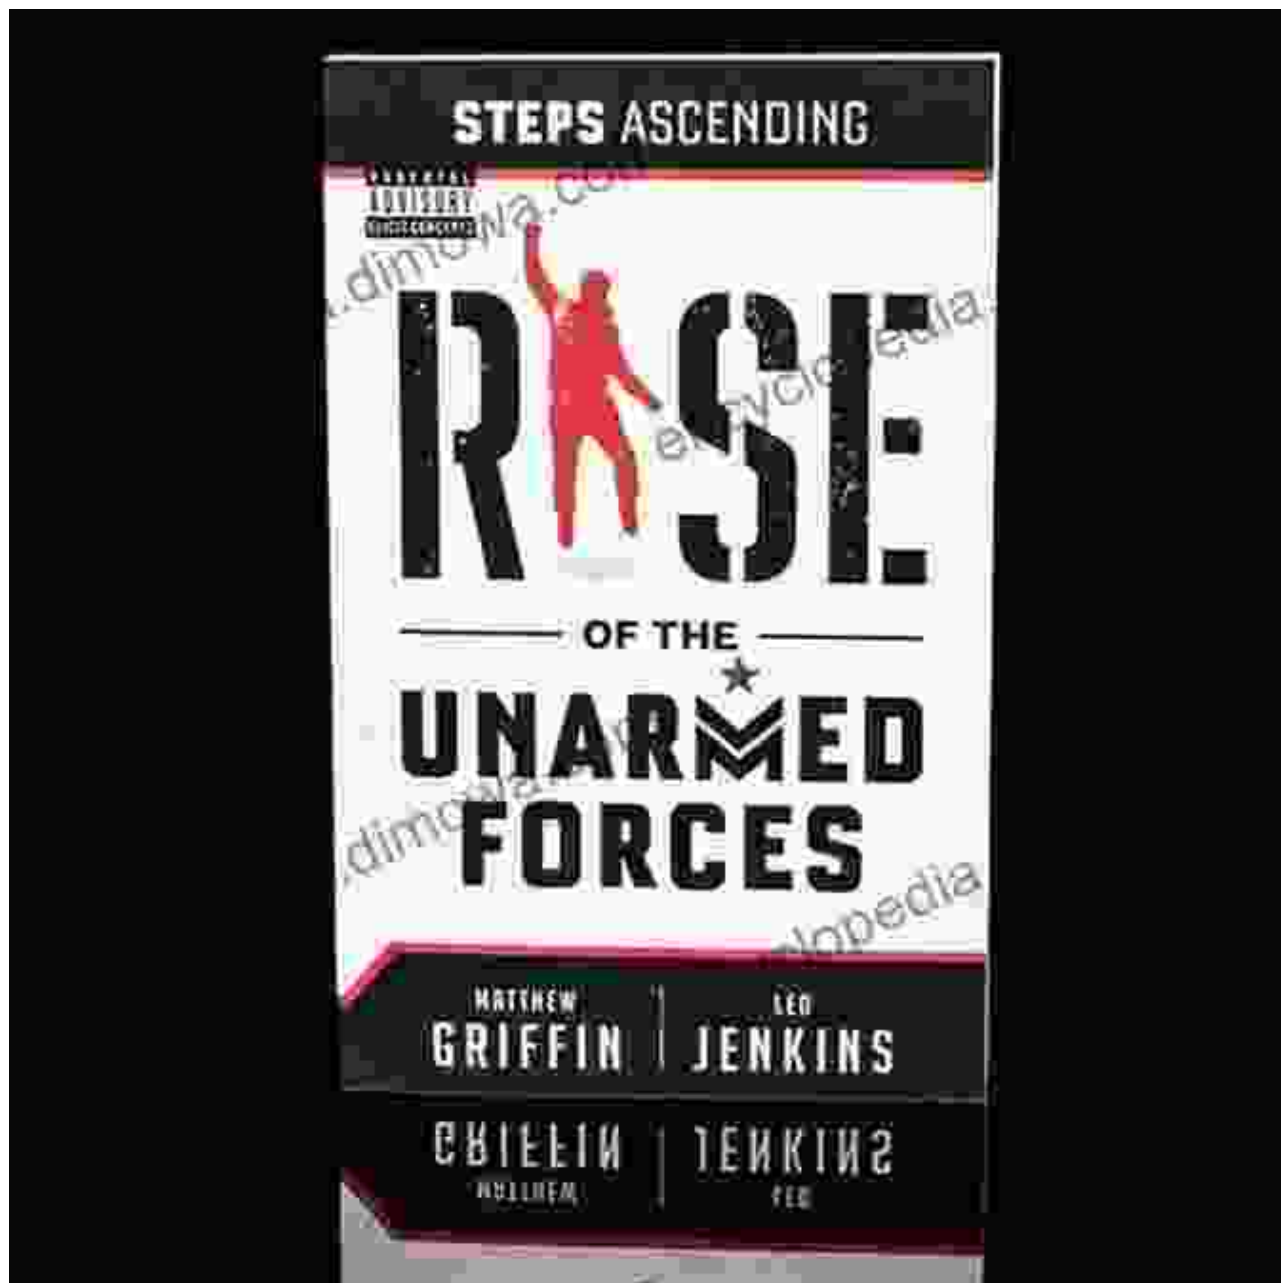

The unarmed peacekeepers began by setting up community centers where people from all sides of the conflict could come together and talk. They also worked with local leaders to develop peace plans. Slowly but surely, the violence began to subside.

By 1995, the conflict in Bosnia had ended. The unarmed peacekeepers had played a major role in bringing about this peace. Their story is a testament to the power of nonviolence.

Steps Ascending: Rise of the Unarmed Forces is a must-read for anyone who is interested in peace and conflict resolution. It is a story of hope and inspiration, and it shows us that anything is possible if we have the courage to take action.
