Tries and Conversions tells the stories of some of these great players, from the early days of the sport in South Africa to the present day. The book is packed with fascinating stories and insights, and is a must-read for any fan of rugby league.

The Early Years

Rugby league was first played in South Africa in 1908, and quickly became a popular sport. The first representative match between South Africa and

Great Britain was played in 1910, and South Africa won 17-12. This was a major upset, and helped to establish South Africa as a major force in the sport.

Some of the greatest players from the early years of South African rugby league include:

- Danie Craven
- Louis Babrow
- Jack Pienaar

These players were all pioneers of the sport in South Africa, and helped to lay the foundation for the success that the country has enjoyed in rugby league.

The Golden Age

The 1950s and 1960s were a golden age for South African rugby league. The national team was one of the best in the world, and many South African players went on to play in the English Super League.

Some of the greatest players from the golden age of South African rugby league include:

- John Coetzee
- Clive van der Berg
- Keith Blatch

These players were all world-class performers, and helped to make South Africa one of the most feared teams in the world.

The Modern Era

South African rugby league has continued to produce top players in the modern era. The national team has competed in every Rugby League World Cup since 1995, and has reached the semi-finals on three occasions.

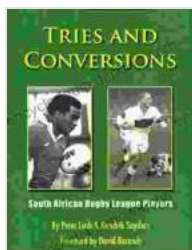

Some of the greatest players from the modern era of South African rugby league include:

- Percy Montgomery
- Bryan Habana
- Makazole Mapimpi

These players have all been key members of the South African team, and have helped to achieve great success on the international stage.

Tries and Conversions is a fascinating and in-depth look at the history of South African rugby league players. This book tells the stories of some of the greatest players to ever grace the game, from the early days of the sport in South Africa to the present day.
